

ABSTRACT OF THE DISCLOSURE

A method and device for call diversion in a communications system with a multiplicity of terminals which are connected to a local area network, the information relating to an activated call diversion being transmitted to an agent unit, and a call 5 being diverted using the transmitted information.